CUBA SERVES AS COMMUNIST BASE

Soviets Seen Casting Wide Net Over Caribbean Countries

By William Bradford Huie

Former U.S. Senator

QUITO (JAHNA). — In Cuba there is not just a local situation. It is the headquarters of Communism in the Western Hemisphere. Many distinguished political leaders in South America believe that the Castro Government will almost certainly be supported by one that is equally Communist.

Some even feel that within the foreseeable future the entire Caribbean will fall to the Communists. Who, they say, is left to take over after the fall of the Communists?

These forecasts come from men of the caliber of Sen. J. William Fulbright, who has been a vocal critic of the Communist Government in Cuba.

problem to much more difficult because of Cuba.

He told us of a form of 1940 which is being driven by the Communist Government in Cuba.

Through this diplomatic network the Soviets now have greater freedom in espionage, the use of the diplomatic pouch for money and supplies, and other important channels of communication.

Cuba has already created his own news service, Prensa Latina, based in Cuba but rapidly spreading through the Caribbean.

He said that this is a long Communist line. He is constructing a huge new radio transmitter that will beam Communist propaganda throughout the area.

America's press correspondents are harassed, their copy censored; in many cases they have been forced to leave the country.

Raul's "Third Force" In Cuba, the Communists now have a position from which to operate for infiltration of the labor movement throughout the hemisphere.

Under the direction of Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, the Communist Cuban labor leaders have already embarked on a "third force" in direct competition with the Latin American ORIT (Organizacion Regional Inter-Americana de Trabajadores) and its parent organization, the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions, which are the representatives of the unions of the West. Raul has issued invitations to a meeting in Caracas.

The Communist agents throughout Latin America appear as liberal labor leaders in order to infiltrate democratic unions. They concentrate on industries controlled in the U.S., such as oil, bananas, power or copper.

Once in, they agitate against the "reactionary" policies of American capitalism, cause incidents and outbreaks of violence wherever possible.

It is a double-barreled effort. It encourages the South American's congenial distrust of "Yankee Imperialism," and encourages American private enterprise from new investments.

Revolutionary Forces Governor Stevenson and I were told by one of the U.S. Ambassadors that Cuba now acts as a base for revolutionary expeditions, groups of 50 to 100 men who have been landed in various Caribbean countries with revolutionary intentions.

In the last few months there have been eight such expeditions in Costa Rica and six in Honduras, all allegedly aimed at Nicaragua.

In each of these expeditions, we were told, there is the same pattern: 1. The arms and munitions have been supplied by Cuba.

I do not know what moved us, but we were moved by the standing performance of the "Appassionata" or Mrs. Golda Meir's heart-warming tribute to the work which WIZO was doing in the Jewish community.

What I do know is that we must have all taken a vow to double our efforts in the Diaspora, in order to live up to the Foreign Minister's description of WIZO as a "voluntary organization" can assist the Government of Israel in its significant task of building a nation and of raising all its citizens to the same high level of culture and civilization.

Mr. Chairman of the City is talked about often in Tel Aviv but very much more could be done about it. Moreover, the new municipal administration should, before engaging in big plans for the future, see to it that the services already existing are working properly.

As from April 1 of this year, many garbage collection trucks have been put into use and the second, and later, shift of garbage collection has been done away with. All garbage is now collected before noon.

Arab workers and drivers clean the main streets and the sidewalks, and collect the garbage from hospitals, hotels, restaurants and embassies on Sabbath eve, Saturday and holidays. However, the city has been added to the list of streets which will be cleaned on Friday afternoon.

The groups of men have been trained in Cuba.

These men, often called "The Black Legion," are part of an elaborate plan. They expect to find an active uprising in the countries they invade, they will be supported by parachutists with explosives.

Since many of these men are non-Communist revolutionaries, one of the U.S. Ambassadors thinks it possible that these armies may be partly destined to liquidate individuals who might otherwise prove embarrassing to the Communists.

YESTERDAY'S PRESS World Peace in Balance

Mr. Khrushchev has evidently exploited the "accident" of the plane incident to the hill in order to score a propaganda advantage over the U.S. and drive a wedge between her and her allies.

Although agreement at the summit would not necessarily have ended tensions in the Middle East, lack of agreement is likely to increase it.

Mr. Khrushchev's speech was not only a warning to the world leaders with whom he was again getting down to their task of preventing a catastrophe, and a warning to the world.
